WE ARE MADE OF THE SAME OLD ELEMENTS,
AND ONLY A SLIVER OF CODE TELLS US APART.
ALIKE IN ALMOST EVERYTHING,
WE WERE ALWAYS GOING TO UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER.
THE WARMEST PLACE WAS NEVER OUT THERE. IT WAS IN US.
AND THE MOMENT YOUR WARMTH MET MINE,
WE KNEW WE HAD NEVER REALLY BEEN APART.

Some are born with a silver spoon.
Baoyu was born with jade in his mouth.

The young heir of China's most celebrated novel, Dream of the Red Chamber, he grew up among silk and poetry in one of the grandest houses of his age. Gentle where others were proud, unhurried where others strived, he never once had to prove what he was.

On his jade, a single line was carved:
Never lose me. Never forget me.

Deep green, dense green, the pine:
such is a gentleman's heart.
— Bai Juyi
Within the heart there stands a tree,
as steadfast as the pine;
the pine endures, forever green,
and wraps you whole in warmth.

AS WITHIN, SO WITHOUT.
THE WORLD IS ONLY AS WARM AS THE HEART THAT SEES IT.
AND TO MAKE IT WARMER, REACH FOR ANOTHER HEART.
